The route from Piermont is some ten miles W. vailey of the Ramapo, up which it proceeds N. N. and prepared for a long resistance to the laws. W. some twenty miles till it clears the range of the Highlands, and emerges into the fertile vales of Orange. Thence its course is W. N. W. some fifteen miles to Goshen.

The thirty miles' course through Rockland County has been a work of considerable difficulty and expense, though not nearly so much so as we had unticipated. The deep-cuts are few, and the rock excavated less tenacious than we expected. Ramapo Works-the manufacturing establishment of Jeromiah Pierson, Esq.-is the only considerable village on the route, though there are several smaller clusters of houses. There are good farms here and there, but the principal products of the hills are trap-rock and cord-wood, of the valleys and glens, cobble-stones and children, all which appear in great abundance. The hills are high, steep and often precipitous, and the Ramapo has worn but a narrow and irregular valley among them. But, on opening into Orange County, the face of Nature is suddenly and entirely changed. Fertile farms, spacious dwellings, herds of sleek cattle, and thrift in every developement, mark the character of the new region. Goshen exhibits unmistakeable evidences of wealth, prosperity and comfort.
